PRESS RELEASE 26th October 2026

Milton Keynes churches called to unite in worship

With just one month to go, churches across Milton Keynes are being called to come together for Still Waters — an evening of worship, praise and prayer featuring three live contemporary worship bands.

Taking place on Thursday 26th November, from 7pm to 10pm at Christ the Cornerstone Church, the event is organised by Living Worship, a non-profit collaborative founded by Christian friends Sarah Murrill and Jean Gowin, who share a vision to see churches across Milton Keynes worship Jesus side by side.

In the run-up to the event, the Living Worship team has been connecting with churches and leaders across Milton Keynes to share the vision behind the event. The positive response, growing excitement and ticket bookings reflect a desire among Christians from different church backgrounds to gather, worship together and celebrate their shared faith.

“We’re passionate about bringing everyone together to worship Jesus” says Sarah. “We believe there is something powerful about coming together with one heart and one purpose. We want people to come just as they are and encounter God in an atmosphere of praise, worship and prayer.”

Jean adds: “We want to extend a special invitation to churches and Christians across Milton Keynes to join us for Still Waters. This is an opportunity to stand together, celebrate all that unites us in Christ and strengthen the bonds between churches across our city. Whatever our denomination or church background, we share one faith and one Saviour.”

Tickets are free but must be booked in advance, and places are limited.

Tickets and further information are available via www.living-worship.org.
